MAIN QUESTION

HOW DOES ALEX ALBON'S DRIVING PERFORMANCE
COMPARE FAVORABLY AGAINST THAT OF SERGIO "CHECO" PEREZ?

Standards of judging a driver:

- Adaptability (able to perform well in any car/team)
- Comparison to teammates
 - position
 - points
- Pace
- Ability to push the limits (of the vehicle and the rules)
- Car ability
- Team Strategy

My biased opinion

WHY ALEX AND CHECO?

Alex is Better

Checo sucks

RED BULL IS BRUTAL

2019 - 2021

- They have had 5 drivers
 - Only one is stable
- Their sister/junior team Toro Rosso

Brutal

- Albon never truly got his opportunity
- Same as the driver he replaced Pierre Gasley

I want to show how Alex could have been a much better choice for Redbull if they only had the patients.

LET'S BEGIN!

Are you ready?

IF MAX'S SPACE IS THE GOAL

- Max and Alex
 - Alex is 99.78% on target time.
- Max and Checo
 - Checo is 81.62% in comparison

WHAT ABOUT OTHER TEAMS

My biased opinion

I love Blue

Pink is ok

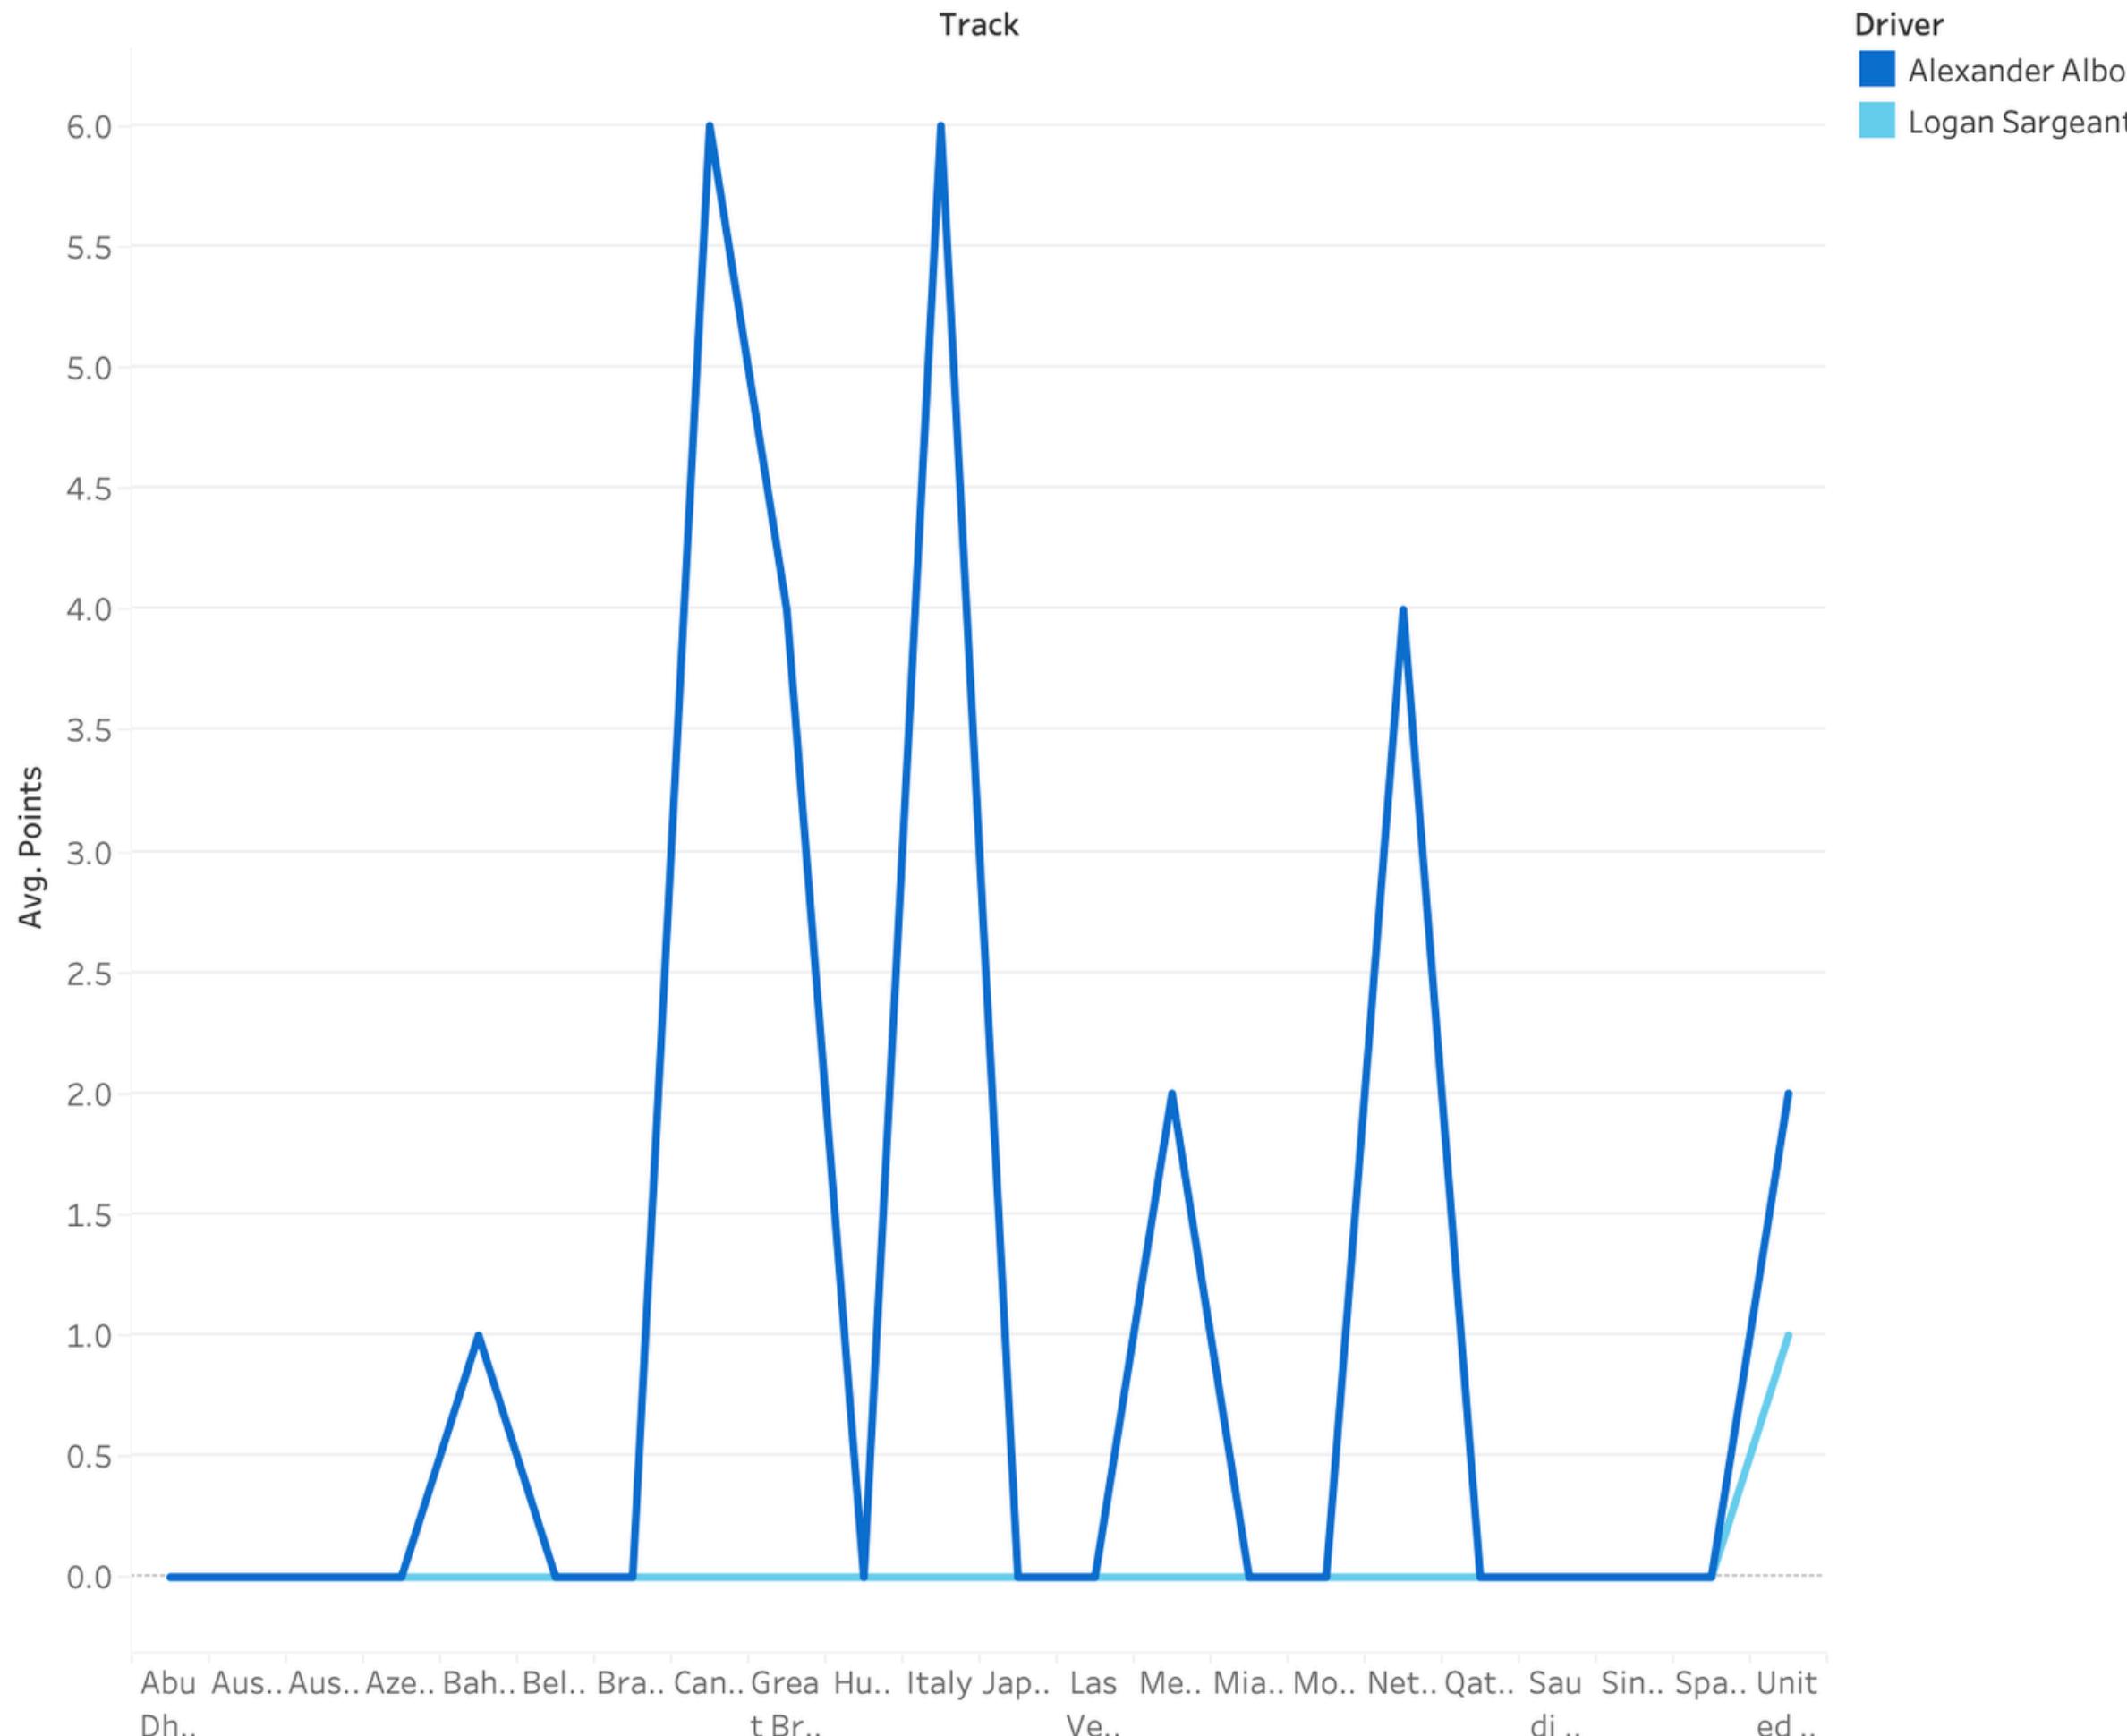

- Alex at Williams

- Checo at Racing Point

Checo at Racing point

CONCLUSIONS FROM THE DATA

Alex:

- Alex was closer to Max in speed than Checo.
- Alex was not as Stable as Checo in his first year.
 - Lacked experience at the time. (2nd F1 season)

Checo makes sense (sadly)

Checo:

- Checo has scored more points than Alex did during his time at Red Bull.
 - Points win Championships.
- Checo has been a high-speed driver for a long time and has more experience. (10th Season in F1)
- Red Bull has won multiple championships with Checo on the team.
 - Checo is slower than Alex, but the car was overall more dominant.

THANK YOU!

Checo still sucks
